Senate May Vote $50 Pay for Army, Navy

REYNOLDS, HILL, OTHERS READY TO BACK ISSUE

LaFollette Will Put Big Question On Floor For Opinion Expression

WHITE HOUSE IS SILENT

House's Firmness To Bring Jump From Original $42 Monthly Stipend Idea

WASHINGTON, June 2—Despite talk of a compromise, it appears likely today that the Senate will yield to the House and boost the pay of Army privates and Navy seamen to a base rate of $50 a month.

The issue is due to be brought before the Senate on Thursday by Sen. LaFollette (P) Wis., unless a joint Senate-House conference agreement is reached before that time.

"I do not see how a conference can be held because some members are out of the city," said Sen. Johnson (D) Cal. "I am glad to see the issue come before the Senate so that we may have an expression of opinion."

Johnson, who originally sponsored the bill which provided a base rate of $42 a month as it passed the Senate, declined to express an opinion on action of the House in insisting on a boost to $50 monthly.

Both Sen. Reynolds (D) N. C., chairman of the Senate military affairs committee, and Sen. Hill (D) Ala., supported the $50 a month figure. Other Senate conferees are Johnson and Sens. Gurney (R) S. D. and Austin (R) Vt.

The budget bureau and Army and Navy officials opposed the $50 figure, but influential Senate leaders said the administration is taking no part in the squabble between Senate and House.

Some senators, it was learned, are suggesting a compromise base pay of $45 a month.

RECRUITS WILL BE SWORN IN AS RAID AVENGERS

WASHINGTON, June 2—The Navy arranged today to swear in thousands of new recruits next Sunday in mass ceremonies which will take place exactly six months after the minute after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

"Avengers of Pearl Harbor," the Navy said, will be the title borne by these recruits.

Oaths will be administered in 300 recruiting stations at 7:55 a. m., Honolulu time, (2:25 p. m. Circleville time.)

Cologne Bombing First Nail In Nazi Chieftain's Coffin

Effect On German Morale May Be Tremendous

By PIERRE J. HUSS
NEW YORK, June 2—Blitzed Cologne stands today as visible proof that the United Nations can ripen the Third Reich from the air this Summer for an eventual knockout, an essential to the wiping out of Hitler by land forces.

The mass raid on Cologne by the RAF opened a dangerous "second front" in the air right under the nose of the fatherland's boastful "watch on the Rhine." The smokeclouds and ruins of the Rhineland key city are an ill-omen to every native German, and the effect on morale within the rest of Germany will in fact be as far-reaching and devastating as the destruction caused by the 6,000,000 pounds of bombs.

To Hitler himself, staring in mad fury at the wreckage and no doubt shouting curses of retaliation at everyone within hearing, the Cologne debacle must be the distant hand-writing on the wall. For at the beginning of the war, the Nazis had counted much on the unmatched striking power of the Luftwaffe and at the same time on what they thought was a fatherland made bomb-proof through super-air defense and preparation. This illusion was gradually destroyed but worse still, the war went on to show that two can use the weapon of aerial terror and destruction.

But foremost in Hitler's mind and in that of every German is, without doubt, the old lurking fear more than a year old that the RAF heavy bombers are but the prelude of what can come once the massed airfleets of American flying fortresses get under way. I used to hear Germans talk about it, and the apprehension showed in their eyes. They comforted themselves by telling each other that the cruising and carrying radius of these air terrors was exaggerated by British propaganda, and that in any case there weren't enough of them to stage mass raids on the Reich.

Hidden Fear Touched
I know that the RAF blitz on Cologne again touched off that hidden fear in German breasts. Luebeck and Rostock were pain- (Continued on Page Eight)

Veterans Recall City Of Cologne

Saturday evening's devastating raid on the city of Cologne in Germany brought back many memories to Circleville men who served in the Army of Occupation in the last war.

According to members of the famous Rainbow Division, which included numerous local veterans, the city was one of extreme beauty and importance but shared no part of the fighting in World War I.

Adrian Yates recalls how he, along with other members of the 42nd, used to ride up the Rhine river to the city from their station at Rolanseeck, the furthest most American occupation point, and view the city of which little is left.

At this time the town was very picturesque but had not gained the military and industrial prestige that it has held in this struggle. Of special interest is the Dome of (Continued on Page Eight)

SUB ATTACK ON BRITISH PLANE CARRIER FAILURE

LONDON, June 2—An unsuccessful attempt by a submarine to torpedo the British aircraft carrier Eagle at Gibraltar was reported today in a Reuter dispatch from Vichy, quoting an Algeiras report.

Duchin in Navy

EDDY Duchin, (above) nationally known band leader, was an officer in the Navy today. In a surprise ceremony at Great Lakes naval training station, where Duchin had taken his band to play before 5,000 enlisted men, he was inducted as a lieutenant, senior grade. At the conclusion of the band's performance, Lt. Commander Eddie Peabody, musical director at the station, introduced Duchin to Admiral John Downes, commander of the Ninth Naval district. The admiral then presented Duchin his commission as a naval officer. Duchin said his band would have six weeks' notice. At the end of that period, he will be sent to Harvard for preliminary training and will return in four weeks to assist Peabody at Great Lakes.

CONVOY REACHES PORT IN NORTH AFTER FIGHTING

LONDON, June 2—Attacked continuously for five days and nights by dive-bombers, torpedo aircraft and submarines, another large convoy of United Nations merchant ships carrying supplies for Russia has "fought its way" safely to a northern Russian port, the British admiralty announced today.

A communique describing briefly what must have been one of the most dramatic events of the war did not identify the Russian port, but it was presumed to have been Murmansk.

The convoy was believed to have been made up chiefly of British and American vessels.

The communique said: "The passage was made in the face of U-boats and a heavy, determined air attack delivered almost continuously for five days and nights."

"From May 25 until May 30, German bombers, dive-bombers and torpedo-carrying aircraft attacked the merchant ships and their escort vessels with every weapon at their command."

A German claim that 18 ships in the convoy were sunk was branded as "an exaggeration by over 175 percent"—indicating that not more than two or three vessels had gone down.

Single Russian Airplane Credited With 3,000 Nazis

MOSCOW, June 2—A single Russian divebomber squadron operating on the Khar'kov front destroyed a German divisional headquarters and killed more than 3,000 German soldiers during the last two weeks, the newspaper Pravda declared today. The squadron also knocked out more than 100 Nazi tanks, the report stated.

ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF TINY CHILD ADMITTED

NUDE BODY IS FOUND

Suspect Says He Killed Girl When He Fell, Crushing Michigan Baby

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 2—Authorities today held 16-year-old Ross Heath of Chicago who, they asserted, had confessed the kidnapping and killing of a two-month-old baby girl whose parents had left her sleeping for a few minutes in an automobile outside a tavern.

Sgt. Charles W. Engle of the state police said the youth's confession was "incoherent" in spots and that he was not satisfied with the story, particularly the part in which Heath was quoted as saying:

"I saw the baby in the car and that gave me the idea of kidnapping her. As I ran away with her, I fell, tumbling on top of her."

The nude body of the infant, Gloria Jean Nault, was found at midnight in the cab of a truck a quarter of a mile from the tavern in New Swanzy, about 20 miles from Marquette, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Nault, had left her in the automobile.

Sgt. Engle said that while the child's fractured skull and the bruises on its body could have been suffered in a fall such as Heath described, the youth was unable to explain the removal of the infant's clothing.

Returning Bottle

The Naults, taking the baby, had gone for a ride Sunday night with friends and had stopped at a tavern where their eldest daughter, one of six children, was employed. Mrs. Nault remained in the automobile until the baby fell asleep then went inside to return an empty pop bottle. On returning to the car, she found the baby had vanished.

She screamed for her husband. State police were called and joined in the frantic search. Soon after the infant's body was found, police found deep heel imprints leading from the Nault automobile. (Continued on Page Eight)

CONGRESS WILL ENTER WAR ON HITLER'S AIDES

WASHINGTON, June 2—President Roosevelt today called on Congress for a formal declaration of war against Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania.

The governments of these three vassal states of the axis already have declared war against the United States.

The chief executive sent a special message to Congress containing only two paragraphs making the request for formal recognition of the fact that Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania are engaged in military action against the United Nations "and are planning an extension of these activities."

1,250 PLANES GIVE COLOGNE PREVIEW OF FUTURE

Air Marshal Harris

A preview of what the future probably holds for German cities was given the Rhineland industrial center of Cologne when an estimated 1,250 R. A. F. planes showered the city with 6,000,000 pounds of bombs and left it in flaming ruins. A view of the city from the famous Cologne Cathedral is shown above. In reply to a congratulatory message from Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States Army Air Forces, Air Marshal A. T. Harris, who planned the great attack, declared, "We too look forward to the time, now so near, when the United States Army Air Forces . . . commence operations on our side in this theater of war."

F. D. PUTS STAMP ON GAS RATIONS, CAPITAL LEARNS

WASHINGTON, June 2—President Roosevelt, it became known today, has given his approval to nation-wide gasoline rationing, expected to be put into effect soon after July 1 as a rubber conservation measure.

Information to this effect came following a conference between Mr. Roosevelt, War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson, and Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who is administering the east coast's rationing program.

Nelson and Henderson refused to comment, however, on the purpose of their visit to the White House or the nature of the topics discussed with the chief executive.

The WPB chief reported only that the board would resume consideration at its weekly session today of the nation-wide rationing program submitted a week ago by Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman.

ANGRY GIRL, 17, KILLS HERSELF AFTER ARGUMENT

MONESSEN, Pa., June 2—Sarah Delegee, 17-year-old junior in Monessen high school, was dead today, the victim of her own hot-tempered decision to die.

The girl shot herself in the heart last night when her boy friend and sister and brother-in-law watched horror-stricken but powerless to stop her.

She was given a last-minute reprieve from her own decision to die when the first cartridge in the .38 calibre revolver missed fire. But without a semblance of hesitation, she deliberately pulled the trigger a second time and died eight minutes later.

The girl's suicide followed a quarrel with her boy friend, William Ross, 20, during which she took his automobile and wrecked it at a nearby intersection.

Ross and the others brought her home where she stayed a few minutes and then asked to return to the scene of the crash. When they were returning, they noticed the girl had the revolver and was pointing it at her breast. Just as a state police car drove up to investigate, the girl fired.

WPB STUDYING USE OF PLANES TO HAUL CARGO

WASHINGTON, June 2—The War Production Board today is investigating the possibility of increasing the use of large-size, long-range airplanes as cargo-carriers.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson has named a committee to obtain all facts relating to cargo planes, including future possibilities of such transportation technique in relation to production problems arising from the war effort.

Harold E. Talbot, deputy director of the WPB's production division, and former president of the Dayton Wright aircraft corporation, is chairman of the committee.

BRITAIN SENDS BOMBER FLEET AT KRUPP PLANT

"Thousands Of Pounds" Of Explosives Poured On City Of Essen

DEVASTATION IS REPORTED

Railway Center In Heart Of Reich's Coal, Iron Fields Struck

By LEO V. DOLAN

LONDON, June 2—Choosing as its target the backbone of Nazi war production, the Royal Air Force raided Germany in more than 1,000-plane strength again last night and early today, duplicating at Essen and elsewhere in the Ruhr valley the wholesale devastation wrought at Cologne.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill himself informed the House of Commons that for the second time in three days and by LONDON, June 2—Residents of Germany's Rhineland and industrial Ruhr are living in deadly terror of Royal Air Force bombing assaults, a German technical worker from the Ruhr told Reuters (British) news agency in Istanbul today. He said that the industrial quarters of Dusseldorf, major Rhineland industrial city, had been razed to the ground and that Essen was blasted severely even before last night's mammoth raid.

a magnificent feat of operational planning, gigantic waves of RAF planes dropped thousands of tons of bombs on military targets.

This attack was in the nature of a personal proof to Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering that the Luftwaffe he created has at last been outstripped by Britain. Essen is Goering's "own town," site of the Krupp munitions plant and the Hermann Goering steel works, source of his immense personal fortune and object of his particular pride.

The exact number of craft sent out in this new step in Britain's "master plan" to destroy Hitler's war machine was 1,036.

The raid was concentrated in the region of the vital manufacturing city of Essen, site of the huge Krupp iron and steel works.

Essen is a large railway center in the heart of the Reich's coal and iron fields 22 miles northeast of Dusseldorf.

Churchill said that according to first reports the Royal Air Force bombers started numerous widespread conflagrations equal to the devastation inflicted Saturday on Cologne.

He said 35 British bombers were missing as a result of the raid.

"No fewer than 1,130 British manned aircraft," operated in the Cologne assault, Churchill said in revealing for the first time the number of planes which actually participated.

During the attack on the Ruhr, planes of the bomber, fighter, coastal and army commands cooperated with the main bomber force by attacking Nazi airbases in Germany, France and the low countries to keep as many Luftwaffe planes as possible on the ground. The same tactics were used to eliminate aerial opposition when the mass raid was made on Cologne.

The prime minister said that although Britain intended to keep battering Germany continually every raid might not involve a force of 1,000 planes. The number to be employed, he explained, would depend on the type of operation.

GERMAN FOLK MAY BE WITHOUT BEER JULY 1, SWEDISH REPORT SAYS

STOCKHOLM, June 2—After July 1 Germans will have to get along without beer, said a dispatch today from Berlin to the Stockholm Tidningen. The ban on Germany's favorite drink was announced as a measure to save grain.

PERRY SCHOOL NAMES HOBBLE SUPERINTENDENT

Atlanta Board Meets Monday Eve To Offer Contract To Madison Mills Man

ONE VACANCY REMAINS

Educator Returns To County After Eight Years In Other Districts

Warren E. Hobbie, principal-coach at Madison Mills schools during the last year, was employed Monday evening by the Perry township board of education as superintendent to succeed Leslie Canup, superintendent there for the last several years.

The board has not made a definite decision concerning employment of a principal-coach for the school, a vacancy existing in the position formerly held by Donald McKay.

Hobbie's employment returns him to the Pickaway county school system after several years in other counties. He was employed at New Holland some years ago as a teacher and later became principal and coach there, remaining for four years. He removed to Midland, teaching in the schools there for seven years. He spent only one year at Madison Mills.

The new Atlanta superintendent is a graduate of Wilmington college and received additional training at Ohio university and Rio Grande college. He is married, has three sons and one daughter.

His employment completes the list of superintendents for Pickaway county schools for next year. Only other change made in the system's superintendents was at Monroe where A. E. Black of Groveport was named to fill the vacancy left by Byron Storer's resignation to enter the Army.

Other Pickaway county superintendents returning to their schools include Carl Burger, Pickaway; John Florence, Washington; Carl Bennett, Walnut; C. A. Higley, Ashville; Pielsdorf, Hansen, Jackson; Robert Shauk, Scioto; Brice Connell, Darby; Harold Costlow, New Holland; Wendell Boyer, Deer Creek; Harold Strous, Salt Creek.

CRAIG LELAND FILLING IMPORTANT JOB IN WEST

Mrs. E. S. Mowery, 216 North Washington street, has received word that Craig G. Leland, who married the former Elizabeth Dotter of Circleville, has been appointed assistant resident plant engineer of the Wilmington, California, United States Maritime commission. Mr. Leland has been working for the government for a number of years. He is a graduate of the Colorado School of Civil and Mining Engineering and Stanford university.

PETERS WILL FILED

Four children will receive the bulk of the estate of Preston Peters, deceased, under provisions of a will filed Monday in probate court. The estate is estimated at $8,750 and will be divided equally among the children since his wife, the original recipient, preceded him in death. Those listed to benefit from the property are Charles, Albert, Flora and Newton Peters. Charles and Newton have received letters of testamentary for handling the estate. A daughter, Grace, will receive $25 under the document.

ON CASH BASIS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Atlantic City finances now are on a cash basis. Control of the city's finances was taken over in 1939 by the State Local government board and it was estimated that the city's budget could not be placed on a cash basis until 1943. But after a recent meeting of city officials and the board, the latter group severed its supervision of Atlantic City finances.

PRICE CEILING QUERIES AND ANSWERS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Questions dealing chiefly with what commodities are covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation are being answered by the OPA. Most of the questions were gathered from letters and telegrams from business men, who have asked interpretations of the regulations effect on their particular lines. In connection with the questions and answers, it was pointed out that commodities sold at retail came under price ceilings May 18, and that services sold at retail will be subject to the regulation July 1. Other questions and answers will be published Tuesday.

11.—Q. Are cooking utensils included in the cost-of-living commodities, maximum prices of which must be conspicuously listed at point of retail sale?

A. Ten quart pails, two quart saucepans, and five quart teakettles are "cost-of-living commodities". For others this conspicuous listing of maximums is not required, even though they are subject to control.

12.—Q. Maximum Price Regulation No. 142, fixing retail prices for summer seasonal commodities covers as summer seasonal shoes only "rubber bathing shoes and shoes designed exclusively for beach wear not having leather or rubber soles". How are other types of summer shoes that are treated as summer seasonal items in trade circles covered?

A. These shoes will have to be priced like any other shoes pursuant to the General Regulation.

13.—Q. Is popcorn covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation?

A. Corn for popping, whether packaged or in bulk, is excepted. Corn after popping, however, is covered by the Price Regulation.

14.—Q. Is "fluid milk" and therefore price controlled under the General Maximum Price Regulation when sold at retail?

A. Yes.

15.—Q. Are pianos, musical instruments and phonograph records covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation?

A. Yes, they are covered, whether new or used.

16.—Q. Are new refrigerators price-controlled?

A. Yes, both wholesale and retail, under Maximum Price Regulation No. 110. Used refrigerators are covered by Regulation No. 139.

17.—Q. Are washing machines and radios price-controlled?

A. Yes, both wholesale and retail, under the General Maximum Regulation. Previously they were covered by special regulations, which have been withdrawn.

18.—Q. Are sales of second-hand furniture sold at retail controlled?

A. Yes.

19.—Q. Are goldfish covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation?

A. No. They are exempt, as "living animals, whether wild or domestic."

20.—Q. Is smoked fish covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation?

A. Yes.

21.—Q. Are imported spices covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation?

A. Yes, with the exception of caraway, unbleached cardamum, and mustard seeds, which are exempt as "raw and unprocessed agricultural commodities". Since all others undergo a distinct drying operation in the country of origin, they are considered as "processed" within the meaning of the General Regulation.

22.—Q. Are sales of sugar at retail covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation.

A. Yes.

23.—Q. Are goldfish covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation?

A. No. They are exempt, as "living animals, whether wild or domestic."

24.—Q. Is smoked fish covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation?

A. Yes.

Refugee Says Cologne Just "Blazing Furnace"

SOMEWHERE ON THE GERMAN FRONTIER, June 2—Refugees arriving from bomb-torn Cologne told today of the terrible destruction and confusion wrought by the tons of explosive dropped on the west German city Saturday night by the greatest air armada in history.

"In no time at all the whole town was a blazing furnace," one eye-witness declared. He was serving on a river freight boat that was anchored a few hundred yards from the outskirts of the city.

"I saw bombs and fires in the last war, but it was only child's play compared to what happened to Cologne Saturday night," he declared grimly.

"From the deck of my boat I could see bombs bursting in the great and complex network of cranes, storehouses, steam shovels, freight cars and boats lining both banks of the river and crowding the two artificial harbors on each bank. The Rhineau harbor and the Deutz industrial harbor.

"All throughout Saturday this modern industrial equipment had been screaming, whistling and coughing in busy labor. An hour after the bombing began it was a tangled blazing mass of steel, burning coal and mangled bodies."

A youth who had been making the rounds of Cologne's dance halls said the city had been in a gay holiday mood, celebrating the arrival of a Cologne submarine crew home on furlough. The gauleiter had lifted restrictions in honor of the occasion and the streets were crowded with merry-makers, he said.

"When the sirens sounded there was a rush for air raid shelters, but they could not hold all who tried to crowd in," he related. "I ran with many others for the cathedral but we couldn't make it as the whole region was aflame."

"The next day I saw the whole night life district was wrecked. The rows of night clubs were a shambles."

The great Cologne cathedral, one of Europe's priceless architectural treasures, was not damaged, he declared.

LONDON, June 2—Official German estimates state that 15,000 persons will have to be evacuated from Cologne because of the destructive Royal Air Force raid last Saturday, the Exchange Telegraph company said today in a dispatch from Zurich.

The estimate, it was added, stresses that the final figure of

SALES TAX DROPS ABOUT 14 PERCENT DURING MAY

A drop of about 14 percent was reported for sales tax returns during the month of May as compared with the corresponding period last year.

Receipts during the last month totaled $6,630.52 while in 1941 the collections were $7,722.30.

The drop in tax sales has been noticed all over the state since government restrictions have prevented sale of many items, including automobiles.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

WHEN you consider the new products we've seen developed in our time...you'd think that just about everything worth while in the world was invented in the last few years.

It's kind of refreshing, for a change, to find out that some pleasant things in our modern life date way back to ancient days.

For instance—I read the other day about a piece of pottery some scientists dug up in Mesopotamia. On the pottery was a picture of two brewery workers making beer.

That picture was 6,000 years old!

You know, that's something to think about. Beer...6,000 years ago! I wonder if it tasted anything like the good lager beer I have sent up to the house every now and then.

Somewhere else, I read that beer came over on the Mayflower—in fact, if I remember right, a shortage of beer was one of the reasons why the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock instead of somewhere else.

Interesting, isn't it, the way a simple, everyday beverage like beer can get tangled up with history!

Maybe it's because there's something fundamental and human about beer. It's the beverage of moderate, sensible, well-behaved people in every part of the world, and always has been.

Personally, I like it because it tastes so good and is so refreshing...and I know I can trust it. And I get a thrill out of thinking that maybe some writer fellow back in ancient Egypt or ancient Mesopotamia, thousands of years ago, felt the same way about beer as I do.

It's a small world, after all...

PENALTIES ON EXCESS WHEAT WILL CONTINUE

AAA Officials Say Court Ruling Will Not Change Plans For 1942

RE-ARGUMENT IS DELAYED

Loan Value In Ohio Fixed At $1.14; Farmer To Pay 57 For Surplus

Postponement by the supreme court of its decision on constitutionality of the 49-cent wheat marketing penalty of last year will have no effect on the 1942 wheat marketing program, AAA officials contended Tuesday.

While indicating doubt as to constitutionality of the whole wheat marketing provisions of the AAA act of 1938, the supreme court, in setting the case for re-argument next October 12, limited it to "the question of whether the act, insofar as it deals with wheat consumed on the farm of the producer, is within the power of Congress to regulate commerce."

"Postponement of the decision," said D. D. Deeds, a member of the Ohio AAA committee, "will have no effect on collection of penalties on excess wheat this year. We plan to go right ahead and enforce the act on wheat harvested this summer."

The case before the high court originated in federal court at Dayton. Three judges granted Roscoe C. Filburn, Montgomery county farmer, an injunction restraining AAA officials of that county from collecting the 49-cent penalty.

Filburn contended Congress had raised the penalty from 15 cents a bushel to half the AAA loan value (49 cents last year) after the 1941 crop was planted.

Act Not Discussed

The decision handed down by the Dayton federal court did not discuss the constitutionality of the Wheat Control Act.

This year the loan value on wheat in Ohio has been set by the AAA at $1.14, making any penalty invoked for production in excess of quotas 57 cents per bushel. "We have not insisted that farmers who in 1941 produced wheat in excess of their quotas pay the 49-cent penalty," Deeds asserted. "We have accepted payment from those who voluntarily offer it but since the Dayton court decision, have not made an issue of collecting the penalty."

At the time of the Dayton decision, Russell Kiko, of Canton, president of the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest association, pointed out that "all the facts of the constitutionality of the marketing quota program were not presented."

Kiko's contention was concurred in by Deeds who asserted that it was his belief "only the 49-cent penalty provision can be determined in the case now before the Supreme Court."

John appointed "Denny" to the Construction Workers job and at one time, while boss of the CIO, supported the union with a $20,000 a month handout. Under the CIO constitution, "Denny," not being an elected officer, is subject to removal by the Construction Workers executive board. Murray and four other Lewis foes constitute the board, and any time they decide to do it, "Denny" is a gone goose.

In this case brother John will face the necessity of adding one more member of his family to the United Mine Worker payroll. Already five are drawing UMW checks.

Feeling within the CIO against District 50 is at fever pitch. Completely under Lewis' domination—his daughter Kathryn is the $7,500 a year secretary-treasurer of the union—District 50 was used by him to give the works to Murray, and for other anti-CIO axing jobs. A number of CIO unions have demanded retaliatory war on District 50, but Murray held them back in the hope that some agreement could be worked out with Lewis.

But with that door closed, the full fury of long smoldering CIO wrath will be turned loose on District 50.

MURRAY VS. LEWIS

Neither Lewis nor Murray pulled any punches in their verbal battle during the closed-door UMW Policy committee sessions preceding Murray's ouster.

Lewis started the fireworks by denouncing Murray's close friend R. J. Thomas, president of the United Auto Workers and James Carey, able young CIO secretary. Lewis followed these cracks by charging that Murray once had called him, Lewis, a Jap. Murray denied that.

"I didn't call you a Jap," he retorted. "But there is one thing you should remember. Even a Jap doesn't turn against his own country."

Murray also bitterly denounced the scheme to dismiss him from his UMW vice presidency as an "indecent and indefensible procedure."

"This is being done by men who don't represent the rank and file of mine workers," Murray charged. "I have been a UMW officer for 25 years and yet I don't know many of those present here today. This room is packed with strange faces."

This charge, however, didn't faze Lewis. Calmly he replied in one of his melodramatic rumbles.

"Mr. Murray says he has been a UMW officer for 25 years. As such he should be fully familiar with all the practices and procedures of the union. If he acquired that familiarity only at this late date, then there is no use discussing them with him."

Note: William Hutcheson, head of the AFL carpenters, who cooked up with Lewis the surprise AFL-CIO peace move he sprang last December, is secretly jockeying to bring the miners back into the AFL fold. Working with Hutcheson is Matty Wolf, AFL vice president. Wolf and Hutcheson were the chief engineers of the recent AFL peace proposal made by William Green, whom

WALTER LEIST TO TAKE PART IN BOYS' STATE

Each year the American Legion of the state sponsors a Boys' State with representatives from all cities and towns convening in a mock state government.

The local boy to attend the program will be Walter Leist, a junior and son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leist. Walter is 17 and has been active as president of the Hi-Y and vice-president of his class during the last school year.

The ten day session will be held this Summer June 13-23. In the past the Boys' State has been staged on the state fair grounds but because the Army has taken over the grounds the event will be held at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, this year.

BOYS OF EIGHTEEN

EIGHTEEN is rather a good age to take boys into training. They have finished high school by that time, or other schooling. They have not entered college or become established in any permanent job. The lad of eighteen is at a turning point. He is ready for the new training. If the boy then goes to camp, he gets a kind of education which will do him good in later life no matter in what direction his talents draw him. If he goes to war at twenty or twenty-one, he is ready for that. He is not grabbed in some half draft and sent into battle station half-trained as has sometimes happened in the earlier history of the country. If the war should be over before he is called into active service, he goes back to college or to a job with no lost motion, and with a kind of learning and discipline that will stand him in good stead all through his life.

It really seems sounder to take the lads of that age, than to let them get part way through college or half established in a stable occupation, married, perhaps, and with young children, and then call them, with the consequent disrupting of plans, waste motion and difficulty for themselves and others.

ENDING WPA

THE President, reducing the estimate for the next WPA budget from $465,000,000 to $280,000,000 notes the rapid absorption of unemployed labor and expresses the hope that WPA will not be needed after the next fiscal year. "The recruitment of workers from every available source will be required," he says. "It is urgent that labor resources be fully utilized and that productive labor reserves now on the rolls of the WPA be engaged in other productive employment."

Some commentators put the matter still more strongly. If a labor famine is developing so rapidly as it seems to be, they say, every employable person now on the WPA rolls may find work more quickly than the President indicates. The labor markets are clamoring for more hands. A greater effort on the part of WPA itself to meet this demand in natural ways, without resorting to the draft and migration methods that have been suggested, might soon accomplish the purpose.

Scientists have discovered the longest known word in any language. It is in ancient Greek, has 78 syllables, and means "hash". The Greeks were braver than we if they were willing to list everything that went into their hash.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour By Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning of real heat and a real desire to can some of it for next winter. Folk complaining but not the crops. Headed for the plant and there found everyone in smiles for news was pouring in about that great mass RAF raid on Germany. No wonder Hitler was willing to call off air bombings. Now, he will get plenty of the same kind of medicine that he poured down the unwilling throat of England in the earlier phases of the war. And just wait until the Americans join in on that type of attack. Then the Heinies will really see something.

Saw nine of our light bombers pass over the village Sunday and wondered just what they could have done to us had they been raiding enemies. Plenty, you may be sure. And to think that just nine gave me the shudders. Imagine 1,250 dropping bombs. Staggers the imagination. Mine anyway.

Chatted with Tom Shea, who last Fall made the difference between a fine high school football team and just another eleven. More natural ability than I have seen in any youngster in a lot of years. Really of big university calibre, that kid.

Mrs. Fred Roundhouse called and invited me to see a surprise in her back yard. And it was a surprise, too—a puff ball mushroom that would require a size 32 girdle. That is generally a Fall growth, but there it was, bigger than life. Somewhat afraid of it as food was the Roundhouse family. Know what I would have done with it had it been mine. That big ball would have been sliced down and fried. Looks like angel food cake when cut, but is much better eating to my way of thinking.

And what a success was Salvage Day. Gordon's junk yard was actually swamped as truck after truck came in with old iron, old tires, tin, aluminum and the like, all collected from the rural districts. Enough material there to make many a Jap and German hunt hiding places. Excellent work on the part of Dan McClain, chairman of the salvage committee of the Defense Council.

Among the city's real war workers are Herald carrier boys. In six months of contest those youngsters have sold 12,346.60 worth of bonds and stamps within the city and on their routes. Although the contest ended the first of this week and special treasury awards of merit will no longer be issued, the kids asked that they be permitted to continue the sales. So, we communicated with Washington. Howard W. Stodghil, of the war savings staff, called long distance from Washington to personally congratulate the boys on their success and their continued interest in helping the war effort. "Tell them to go right ahead," he said. "They are the kind of Americans we all should be right now. There is a great need for the splendid kind of work they have been doing."

So, the scrivener passed on the word and doffed his hat to as fine a bunch of kids as anyone ever has seen. And don't think that selling bonds and stamps does not take time. Each and every one of those youngsters has put in a lot of hours every week helping Uncle Sam and will continue doing it.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

CHOOSING COORDINATOR

WASHINGTON — For more than two months the President has been backing and filling on the question of coordinating the numerous government war information agencies under a single head. Chief reason for his long delay is the problem of deciding on the Co-ordinator.

More than a score of names have been considered. It's a White House secret, but the list finally has been sifted down to the following five—

William Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France and years ago a brilliant foreign correspondent.

Paul W. Garrett, vice president in charge of public relations of General Motors.

Raymond Rubicam, head of Young & Rubicam, a leading advertising agency.

Byron Price, War Censor and former Associated Press executive.

Lowell Mellett, head of the Office of Government Reports and one-time newspaper editor.

Of the five, Price and Mellett have the most potent inner circle backing.

Pressing strongly for Price, is White House Secretary Steve Early, an old newspaper chum of Price and largely responsible for his appointment as War Censor.

Mellett's principal backer is Judge Sam Rosenman, close personal adviser of the President who asked him to look over the field and recommend names for Information Co-ordinator. Mellett has told friends he didn't want the job. Also, that he didn't consider Price fitted for it.

THE TAPE IS STILL RED

A group of seven officials in the Office of Price Administration chipped in $20 apiece and made up a purse to lend to office girls who hadn't enough money to pay their room rent.

Reason: Though they had been working for the Government a month or more (some since April), the girls had received no pay. The OPA is expanding fast, and the creaking wheels of old line agencies, such as Civil Service Commission and Treasury Department, can't keep up with the pace.

One of the girls in this distress group had taken a part-time job as a waitress, to earn her dinners, waiting for Uncle Sam to pay off. All of the girls are working over-time.

MURRAY RETALIATION

Phil Murray is not going to take his curt ouster as vice president of the United Mine Workers lying down.

The CIO executive committee, meeting in Washington this week, will return the booting with a couple of swift kicks to John L. Lewis's paunchy mid-riff.

Retaliatory moves planned are (1) dismissal of "Denny" Lewis, brother of John L., from his $12,000 a year sinecure as head of the United Construction Workers Organizing Committee; (2) a militant crackdown on District 50, the Mine Workers branch which Lewis has been using to

Danger of Shortage of Quinine Not Imminent

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE CONQUEST of Batavia has affected American life and America in planning for the future probably more than any other aspect of the war. One feature of this which worried me was the outlook for the quinine supply. Nearly 100 per cent of the supply of quinine for the world came from the Dutch East Indies. If this supply were shut off, it would have a very serious effect.

Over most of the continental area of North America it would have no special effect, but in our Southern states we still have to combat malaria with quinine and in combat troops in the Canal Zone and in the tropics anywhere the possibility of a malaria epidemic is very imminent and it might be very serious if quinine were not available.

Dutch Monopoly
The Dutch handled the quinine monopoly as a monopoly, but with very enlightened humanitarianism. They did not allow the cultivation of cinchona trees, from which quinine is obtained, to die out, as happened in Ceylon where it was abandoned for more profitable crops.

In 1913 the Dutch Government issued an agreement which had to do with the regulation of quinine and the distribution of quinine which has resulted in a very even distribution throughout the civilized world at a very fair price. It is hardly possible to suppose from what we know of the Japanese that they will continue so humanitarian an agreement.

No Shortage Imminent
However, the quinine situation I am informed by an authoritative source is quite favorable for several years to come. About two years ago the Government began accumulating quinine for the Army and Navy on a very large scale. The amount of this is military secret, but the opinion exists that this reserve stock of quinine will be ample for two or three years.

No Shortage for Some Time

Manufacturing chemists have matched the foresight of the Government and now have very considerable stocks. There is no real danger of a quinine shortage for some time to come.

For the far future, it is possible that the quinine industry can be developed in South America. It is curious that the first place quinine was ever found was in South America and that it has fallen behind so completely in production.

The wild barks in South America are too low in quinine content to be of worth extraction, except in a real emergency, but some attempts have been made to match the Dutch cultural methods. In Colombia there is being grown a quinine bark which is of good quality and high content, and this may be developed into a supply sufficient to meet our need for all time in the future.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. G.:—"What are the symptoms of calcium deficiency? What are the symptoms of too much calcium in the system?"

Answer: Calcium deficiency in young people causes rickets, a disease in which there is softening of the bones. In adult life calcium deficiency does not affect bones because they are already formed, but it causes a spasm of the muscles known as tetany. Bad teeth are also ascribed to calcium deficiency. There is no definite sign of too much calcium in the tissues.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

AS TIBBY entered Wayne's office in response to his summons, she recalled the first time she had gone there, and how frightened she had been, not only of losing her position because of the trick Steena had pulled in helping herself to Tibby's uniform, but frightened of Wayne himself. She had heard so many rumors about him. He had loomed such an important and forbidding figure. Now she was going to marry him, this man who was, in a way, still a stranger, an employer, for she did not know Wayne very well in comparison with the way she had known Tommy all her life. Certainly she felt like a humble employee as she came into his big, impressive office to find him seated as she had that first time, behind his enormous mahogany desk.

He looked as frightening, too, his jaw set in a stern line, his eyes steel gray, his mind absorbed in the stacks of papers on his desk, as he gave curt instructions to a stenographer, who stood at attention, notebook in hand.

It was several moments before he finished, to glance up and discover Tibby in the background, to dismiss the stenographer and motion Tibby to come on in. The steel of his eyes vanished instantly, but it had been there; the humorous, fond smile softened his handsome mouth. He took a long stride around the big desk to welcome her, but because of the stenographer still gathering papers and notes, he gave her only a formal handshake.

It seemed to Tibby that his manner was the same as that other time, brusque, impatient, but maybe that was only how he appeared in these surroundings, or it might have come from not having seen him for a few days.

He motioned her to a chair, seated himself near by. Not until the stenographer had left the room, closing the door carefully behind her, did he speak. Then he said, "Well, my dear, it's good to see you. I'm glad you got my message before you left on your flight. How are you feeling? You're looking as lovely as usual, but rather tired. You're not ill?"

Tibby said she was feeling very well. She supposed she did look tired; she had not been sleeping well, as a matter of fact. There had been the shock she had just had this morning. She said, "Was it something important?"

There must be some reason that he wished to see her, besides the desire just for that, after a lover's absence.

His lips twitched in a slight smile. "It's important to me how you are," he reminded her. "Everything concerning you is important. The reason I sent for you was to prevent your going out on your schedule. That won't be necessary any more. Under the circumstances, I think it best for you to resign as one of the company's hostesses."

"Resign!" Tibby could not keep the dismay out of her voice. "I don't want to dismiss you!" His smile told her that he was recalling her first visit to this office as well as she. "It will look better for you to resign."

But she did not want to do that; she loved her work. Her face must have spoken for her—or again his uncanny way of reading her thoughts.

He said, "I know how you feel, but, as my fiancée, you cannot continue to do as you see—can you see that, can't you, my dear? There will be a good deal of gossip—you know how that is—and a good deal of curiosity. It will be much better for you simply to resign."

As his fiancée . . . yes, of course. That was what she was now, not an employee. She still felt much more like the latter, especially here in this big, formal room, with Wayne assuming again the place of a figurehead of the company.

She had not thought that she would have to give up her work the minute she became engaged to him. That had been what Tommy had wanted her to do, too, to give it up—this flying business, as he called it—to go home and wait for him, like a little lady. She supposed Wayne wanted her to wait now, like a lady, too.

He did not want her to give up flying, however. "There is still the silver ship," he reminded, "so you need not feel so badly. You may take it up any time you wish, although, for a while, I prefer to be with you. Or at least to know when you are taking it up." He pursed his lips now in a thoughtful line, drawing his dark brows together.

"The government may step in and have something to say about that, too. I've been in Washington on business, too, in a way. Things look bad," he added seriously.

Tibby knew he referred to the probability of war for America. If he had been to Washington on business that had to do with that, it might mean, as she had foreseen, that Wayne would go back into the Army, or at least offer his services in aviation in some capacity. He had been a flyer in the First World War.

He said now, not giving her time to offer any comment, "You're not wearing your ring?"

She had been afraid he would notice that almost right away. She was glad she had tried it on and that she had that legitimate excuse to offer. "It's too large," she explained. He allowed her time to answer this.

Too large and too magnificent, she might have added.

His keen eyes searched her face.

When you telephone an adult, don't ask for "Mary" or "Jack" unless you are sure you know the person who answers the phone. If you do not know to whom you are speaking, ask for "Miss Mary Jones" or "Mr. Jack Jones."

Today's Horoscope

If your birthday is today, the probabilities are that you are a person of rapid perception and shrewd judgment. You should be self-reliant and take little stock in the advice of others. You are impulsive and your tastes are in the intellectual field. Benefits through elders, strangers and secret matters will come to you during the next 12 months. You should, however, avoid impetuosity and guard against extravagance and imposition. Pleasant surprises are in store for you. Thoughtful, idealistic, original and generous will the child be who is born on this date, but such a child will be hasty and passionate, whereby trouble may arise. Outstanding abilities will be manifest.

NEW SONG
Horace Heidt's big feature on "The Treasure Chest" program over the NBC network Tuesday, June 2 at 8:30 p. m. will be an elaborate production number of "The Bombardier Song," the new Rodgers and Hart composition first introduced on The Army

Hour. The entire Heidt ensemble will take part.

Dinah Shore just can't seem to get around to introducing the new song "Conchita." She was supposed to premiere the tune on "Time to Smile" two weeks ago but an arrangement couldn't be completed in time. She started it last week and the network line went dead until it was over. The complete title of the tune is the longest this season and maybe the mike just balked at such a long name.

CAST TOURS
When Jack Benny has to reassemble his cast in the Fall he'll have to send wires to various parts of the country. Those members of his troupe going on tour are Dennis Day, Phil Harris and Rochester. Benny stays in Hollywood to work on his picture and Don Wilson goes to his San Fernando Ranch.

NEW SONG
Horace Heidt's big feature on "The Treasure Chest" program over the NBC network Tuesday, June 2 at 8:30 p. m. will be an elaborate production number of "The Bombardier Song," the new Rodgers and Hart composition first introduced on The Army

Hour. The entire Heidt ensemble will take part.

Dinah Shore just can't seem to get around to introducing the new song "Conchita." She was supposed to premiere the tune on "Time to Smile" two weeks ago but an arrangement couldn't be completed in time. She started it last week and the network line went dead until it was over. The complete title of the tune is the longest this season and maybe the mike just balked at such a long name.

FOXX MAY ADD BATTING POWER TO CUB ATTACK

CHICAGO, June 2 — Hard put all year for any real power at the plate, the board of strategy of the Chicago Cubs today was hopefully building an offensive around the bat of Jimmy Foxx, 35-year-old first baseman acquired from the Boston Red Sox in the American league.

Though the veteran has slowed up considerably compared to the days when he, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig dominated the majors' select circle of sluggers, Foxx still looms up as a shot in the arm for the hit-starved sixth-place Bruins. Even though he only continues his current .270 average, the big boy from Bean Town should be among the Bruins' leading hitters. Glen Russell, whom Foxx is expected to replace at first base, is leading the club with .280.

It was believed Manager Jimmy Wilson would shift Russell to the outfield to make room for the addition. Foxx was purchased on waivers for an undisclosed sum to replace Babe Dahlgren who was sold to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

BOSTON, June 2—With veteran Jimmy Foxx now the property of the Chicago Cubs of the National league, Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox today was confronted with the problem of selecting a regular first baseman. Cronin expects Ulysses Lupien, former Harvard university star, to take over first base.

"Lupien deserves the chance to be the regular Red Sox first baseman and he's going to get it," Cronin said. "Sure I'll play some first base if necessary and so will Paul Campbell and Lou Finney, other first basemen on our roster."

Battle Between Alsab And Shut Out Looming

By JACK MAHON
NEW YORK, June 2—The biggest racing day in New York history may provide one of the biggest turf upsets in years!

Saturday is the day, Belmont Park is the track, and Shut Out is the horse.

This is no idle chatter or a tout service. The Belmont Stakes, third jewel in the famed triple crown of the American turf, happens to be the prize attraction of the day and the fabulous and famous Alsab happens to be the colt the largest mob ever to gather at an eastern track will send to the post as favorite.

It has been written, and we don't mean by any arabic philosophers, that Alsab will canter home all by himself and may not be beaten for the rest of the year. This is all very well with a great majority of the citizens of this village but a young man named Wayne Wright, jockey, happens to think otherwise.

Mr. Wright, one of America's better race riders, happens to be close to the son of Equipoise and thinks Shut Out will whip Alsab in the long awaited "rubber" race of this much talked-about combination.

Each Winner Once
You will recall that Shut Out won the Kentucky derby, in which Alsab was a fast-closing second and the "Sab" came back a week later, to trounce the Whitney flyer in the Preakness stakes.

Brother Wright was discussing the time of the day and the state of the nation with us recently and, by some freak of fortune, happened to be inveigled into a discussion of this return meeting of the two colts.

"Listen, friend," he said, "you

CHICAGO GOLF MOGULS ALTER AMATEUR PLANS

CHICAGO, June 2—The plan of the Chicago Tam O'Shanter club to award $500 war bonds in its all-American amateur golf tournament July 20 to 25 was abandoned today as the result of fears by many top-ranking amateurs that they would endanger their amateur status by entering the tournament.

Instead, $100 war bonds will be given the semi-finalists and the eventual winner, the latter and the runner-up getting a trophy in addition.

Announcement of the change in plans was made by George S. May, Tam O'Shanter president, who originally had defied a ruling by the United States Golf association which said that any player participating in an event in which government securities of more than $100 in value were offered as prizes would imperil his amateur standing.

The USGA amended its rules for the duration of the war last January to permit amateurs to compete for war bonds and other government securities provided they did not exceed $100 in value.

DODGERS FACE TEST IN WEST; REISER CLOUTS

Brooklyn Team Winner Of 17 Out Of Last 23 League Contests

By International News Service

Brooklyn Dodgers went West once before this year and managed to come back to home grounds still holding to the National league lead and they are about to try that same little trick again, beginning today at Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers have won 17 of their last 23 games and are out in front by six games over the St. Louis Cardinals and another two over the Boston Braves, while the Pittsburgh Pirates in the last few weeks have been beaten off entirely and now are down in seventh place instead of still being contenders.

As the eastern clubs of the National go into the West for a good long road swing it seems entirely likely that the Dodgers will manage to stay up there in the top spot. What's more, their Pete Reiser will be attempting at the same time to maintain a batting average which now stands at .343.

Phils At Cincinnati

While the Dodgers are busy with their opening series at Pittsburgh, other clubs in the circuit will be engaged at the other western points—New York at Chicago, Philadelphia at Cincinnati and Boston at St. Louis, the latter being a night contest.

Clubs in both circuits swing back into action after an off day yesterday, with the western American league clubs playing in the East.

Chicago opens today against the New York Yankees, Cleveland at Boston, Detroit at Philadelphia and St. Louis at Washington, the Philadelphia and Washington games being at night.

The Yankees face the opposing westerners with a comfortable eight game lead and little chance of any appreciable inroads being made on their edge.

The Yankees' longest winning streak of the year—eight straight—was stopped Sunday by the Athletics, but they have little to worry about now if the team continues to click as it has all season.

In their latest games they have won 11 out of 13 games and have had the help of Shortstop Phil Rizzuto to an appreciable extent. Until he also was stopped Sunday he had hit in 12 straight games for a streak average of .435.

Joe Gordon, meantime, has hit in 18 straight games and Buddy Hassett in 13.

During 1917 and 1918 Germany manufactured submarines at the rate of one every 90 hours.

ARLINGTON WILL GIVE HUGE SUM TO ARMY, NAVY

CHICAGO, June 2—Arlington park will turn over between $125,000 to $150,000 to the Army and Navy relief funds from the net proceeds of its fourth of July program, officials of the race track announced today.

The sum is expected to top any previous amount given by a sports enterprise to the war relief agencies.

Minus the purses, license fee, staff salaries, with the exception of the top officials, the proceeds will represent the track's part in reaching the $2,000,000 goal set by the War Relocation Authority.

And adding to the patriotism of the occasion, the holiday meeting will be headed by the $10,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap. An invitational race, intended to attract such top performers as Alsab, Whirlaway, Marketwise and Challedon among others, is planned for a $30,000 purse.

THREE DOUBLE HEADERS WILL AID RELIEF FUNDS

CHICAGO, June 2 — To step up the American league's contribution to the war effort, three sets of Sunday double-headers with entire proceeds going to the Army and Navy relief fund were scheduled today for August 23.

As announced by League President Will Harridge, the double-barreled relief games will be between the Yankees and Washington at New York; Boston and the Athletics at Philadelphia, and the Tigers and St. Louis at Detroit.

Meantime, the Chicago White Sox front office designated the fight of July 2 for its part in contributing to the relief funds. The program will include the night game between Chicago and the Cleveland Indians and a twilight contest between the Great Lakes and Chanute field service teams.

HARDER VS. WAGNER

BOSTON, June 2—If the Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox today it will be the first time this season that the Tribe turned the trick. The Sox have put the "Indian" sign on the Redskins in four meetings to date. Mel Harder, with or without his new specs, will take the mound against the Hub nine while Charles Wagner huris for Boston.

all our raids on Germany in the future will be above the four figure scale," he said.

"Methods of attack will be varied continually, according to the circumstances."

"On the other hand," he continued, "these two great night bombing raids mark an introduction of a new phase of the British air offensive against Germany and this will increase markedly in scale when we are joined, as we soon shall be, by the air forces of the United States."

"German cities, harbors and centers of war production will be subjected to an ordeal the like of which never has been experienced in any country in continuity, severity and magnitude."

The aircraft bomber command, headed by Air Marshal A. T. Harris, said that every bomber taking part in last night's raid on the Essen district was made in Britain, as were the craft used in the Cologne attack.

The new mammoth raid was a marvelous achievement in organization and coordination, considering the tremendous preparation and calculations involved in the Cologne raid only two nights previously.

A "reprisal" raid was made by the Luftwaffe against an east Anglian town during the night. Only a small number of German raiders appeared and it was believed unlikely that damage was as heavy as that suffered by Canterbury the night previously.

(The German radio reported that the town raided was Ipswich, in East Suffolk, near the North Sea coast.)

The second gigantic raid was carried out as a pall of smoke still hovered over devastated Cologne, three-fourths of which was said to have been leveled, in the first mass assault.

In the Libyan desert the tank forces of Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel were fighting desperately to extricate themselves from a trap between El Gazala on the coast, and Bir Hacheim, 50 miles inland. British artillery and planes were battering remnants of the axis forces.

The tank columns were reported to be making for two gaps in the minefields protecting the British front in a race against time as British detachments closed in to block escape.

Rommel was reported to have lost 50 percent of the tank forces which he sent out in the futile attempt to capture fortified Tobruk. A Reuters correspondent in Libya declared "it is now clear that the British Eighth Army has won a victory in the fierce 5-day tank battle southwest of Tobruk."

The British admiralty reported that British submarines had sunk 12,000 tons of axis supply ships in the Mediterranean along the supply route to Libya.

The lull in fighting on the Russian front continued, although a Stockholm dispatch said the Germans had launched a new drive in the Kharkov area and had recaptured a town eight miles north-east of the beleaguered city. The official Russian communique declared that no material changes had taken place along the front during the night.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia reported that two of the three Japanese midget submarines that attempted to raid Sydney harbor had been located on the bottom of the harbor and had been recovered. They apparently had been sunk by depth charges. Six persons were killed, 10 were injured and 13 are still missing as a result of the Japanese attack, a naval communique declared.

Mrs. H. B. Given, East Main street, had word Tuesday from her daughter, Mrs. Robert Beach, that Mr. Beach is suffering an attack of pneumonia and is seriously ill in a Milwaukee, Wis., hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Beach returned last Thursday to Milwaukee from Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaner, East Mound street, are parents of a daughter born Tuesday afternoon in Berger hospital.

LODGE NOMINATES ITS NEW OFFICIAL STAFF

First nomination of officers by Philos lodge, Knights of Pythias, was conducted Monday evening with Samuel R. Johnson being nominated for chancellor commander. Others named were Oakley Warner, vice chancellor; George C. Marion, Lewis Cook, prelate; Robert S. Denman, master of work; Francis Clark, master of arms; Ralph DeLong, inner guard; Gerald Miller, Glen Skinner, Charles Kirkpatrick, Harry Groce, outer guard; Charles Stoffer, pianist.

The lodge's memorial services will follow the regular meeting next Monday evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

TWO ASHVILLE CHILDREN SAVED BY WOMAN'S ACTION

Ability of Mrs. Grace Forrest of Ashville to swim, and her coolness in face of emergency were thanked today by Ashville residents after she saved Mary Louise and Edith Bozman, 10 and 12, respectively, from Walnut creek. The incident, information about which was learned Tuesday, happened Memorial day.

Mr. and Mrs. William Amos And Baby In Auto Hit By Electric Train

Three persons narrowly escaped death Monday afternoon when the car in which they were riding was struck by an electric train in use by the Pickaway power plant on the Pickaway-Franklin county line. The accident involved William Amos, West Corwin street, and his wife and baby.

Scene of the crash was on a private road near the Myers Grain company in Lockbourne. Amos was traveling across the track and failed to see the approaching locomotive that was hidden by a truck crossing from the opposite direction. The car in which they were riding was picked up by the train, operating on a spur track to the electric plant, and thrown within six inches of a third rail.

The front of the car was demolished, but all three came out of the incident without any serious injuries. Had the impact placed them on the high voltage rail it is possible that all three would have received fatal injuries from the shock.

bile to the truck cab where the body had been left.

This led to the capture of Heath, as it was recalled that since his arrival in the community he had affected a cowboy costume with high-heeled boots. Led by bloodhounds, officers followed the trail and eventually arrived at the home of Leo Beauchamp in New Swanzy where Heath lived and there arrested the youth.

He denied the crime at first, Sgt. Engle said, but later confessed when trapped in several lies.

E. A. MCCOY TO CAMPAIGN FOR COMMISSIONER JOB

E. A. McCoy, Republican of Washington township, obtained a petition Monday from the board of elections for circulation to become a candidate for county commissioner.

The board has warned all candidates that June 12 is the deadline for filing these petitions with county residents going to the polls for the primary August 11 and the general election November 3.

Posts to be filled at this voting date will be one county commissioner, county auditor, representative to the state assembly, and party committeemen.

FEVER SPREAD HALTS

Scarlet fever spread in Wayne township has come to a halt according to Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, with no cases reported in the last five days. First quarantines to come down in this area will begin next week.

COLOGNE

ful reminders, but Cologne brought that hidden fear to the surface with a rush. I know that in the air cellars and bomb-proof shelters of Germany tonight, there will be thousands listening with real fear to the air alarm sirens, thinking with clutching panic of those thousands and thousands of American flying fortresses they heard so much about.

The Nazi propaganda — designed to minimize and counteract this morale onslaught — never succeeded in dispelling that haunting nightmare. It stuck in the public mind as solidly as the conviction among Germans that Germany could never win a war against America.

I heard German officers discussing air warfare among themselves several times. They were convinced that England would never succeed in breaking Germany from the inside through air attacks—that is, of substituting the air weapon for the 1914-18 hunger blockade. But I also heard them speculate on the possibility of holding out indefinitely against massed airfleets of heavy bombers such as America could conceivably bring forth. I never heard them deprecate or laugh down the latter. It showed, in a different way, the concern lurking back of their rigid military minds.

It can be stated with a fair degree of certainty, therefore, that any consistent mass bombing of Hitler's key cities in the manner of Cologne — Berlin in particular — would hasten immeasurably the job of ripening Hitler for an eventual knockout by land. A 1942 Summer of steady blitz into the heart of Hitlerland inevitably would cut down his self-styled "thousand year Nazi Reich" to something more like a "thousand days."

Morale Effect Great

The effect on morale alone would not sum up the only gain, aside from the visible devastation. Every heavy bomb that falls, as I witnessed in Berlin and in German and occupied cities during 1940-41, scratches the war machine ever more and more. It is like the grain of sand dropped into the power engine—sooner or later there is a defect or crackup. In Cologne, for example, Hitler's war machine got a couple of real cogs and important connecting bolts knocked loose. Knowing that Rhineland city, I'd say the RAF selected as target for the night such vital spots as the huge bridges over the Rhine, the tremendous railway net terminating in the railway station in the heart of the city—alongside the famous dome—and the spacious highway net leading out of the city to all parts of Germany, France, Belgium and Holland.

I would make a bet and say that Hitler is minus the vast output of the Kalk and Humbold Deutz plant, proud mass producer of submarine engines and aircraft; minus the vast car output for the Army of the confiscated former Ford plant; minus the Cologne-Nippes railroad and roundhouse factories, and minus the synthetic rubber (buna) producing plant of Franz Clouth. There are the Rhine docks and shipping yards, and a myriad of important correlated war industries. So that, no matter how high the loss in bombers and men to the RAF, the raid on Cologne can go down in the history of the United Nations as the aerial milestone marking the actual military defeat and downfall of Hitler.

a Catholic cathedral 154 feet high, 480 feet long, and 282 feet wide. The heaviest of six bells in the building, that is in the shape of a cross, weighs 11 tons. The structure is one of the largest and oldest cathedrals in the world. Work was begun on its construction in 873 A. D.

Spared By Bombs

Churches throughout the city have always been noted for their beauty and this particular one has gained widespread acclaim as being one of the most interesting in the world. It is interesting to note that the British fliers in Saturday's bombings did not touch the edifice.

Many other soldiers can recall the territory as being very beautiful with James Shea, Legion commander, who was with the 6th regiment of the U. S. Marines, occupying territory North of Cologne on the Rhine river, telling of the hills and lowland surrounding the river. The marines were stationed on the banks of the Rhine in the foreground of indefinite stretches of hills that were covered with vineyards supplying fruit for the city's huge wine production. River boats and traffic at this time was great with the city being a key outlet for inner production units.

Since the rise of Hitler the river city had gained prominence in the war effort for its transportation advantages and huge war factories were the object of the British leaders. The attitude of the Hitler regime in this war was clearly demonstrated Monday in their reprisal attack on the defenseless city of Canterbury. In spite of the fact that Cologne was of military importance the British spared churches and other institutions as much as possible but instead of a counter attack on some British industrial city the
